Gordon Brown ABOLISHES 10p tax rate and hits the least well off

Time for Bush...

Time for Thatcher...

But no time for low paid...

Gordon Brown and Labour have lost touch with ordinary people in Britain.

Doubling taxes for the lowest paid in our community is simply heartless and cruel.

It's the kind of behaviour you would expect from a Conservative Government - not a Labour one.

The Chancellor has now said he will help low income families hit by the abolition of the 10p rate no details will be announced until the end of the year. It is not clear that the extra benefits will be backdated. During this time people such as yourself will continue to struggle to pay double their previous tax rate and it seems likely that any future changes will still fail to compensate those hit hardest. Only Nick Clegg's Liberal Democrats are standing up for ordinary people in Britain today.
